

COLLEGE OF ARTS, HUMANITIES, AND SCIENCES

Dean: Dr. Tim H. Lindblom

Associate Dean: Mr. J. Seth Johnson

227 Stone Center

The College of Arts, Humanities, and Sciences offers a distinctive environment for investigation, intellectual curiosity, creative expression, and discovery. The College offers graduate degrees in Biology, Computer Systems and Software Design, English, Geographic Information Science and Technology, History, Mathematics, Music, and Visual Communication Design. Microcredentials/graduate certificates are available in Teaching College Writing, Teaching College Literature, Teaching College United States History, and Teaching College World History. Our diverse and accomplished faculty and staff cultivate learning-centered environments where students thrive from critical thought, engaging educational experiences, and an expansive worldview. Offering both general education and specialized undergraduate and graduate programs, the college is the intellectual gateway to all academic programs at the university.