

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND HUMANITIES

Dean: Dr. Tim H. Lindblom

Associate Dean: Mr. J. Seth Johnson

The College of Arts and Humanities strives for academic excellence by providing a learning-centered environment where students cultivate critical thought, intellectual curiosity, and an expansive worldview. The College offers graduate degrees in Art, English, History, Integrated Studies, and Music. Microcredentials/graduate certificates are available in Teaching College Writing, Teaching College Literature, Teaching College United States History, and Teaching College World History. Graduate coursework in Theatre is also available. The College supports the university's general education curriculum and specialized programs, encouraging global engagement and ethical leadership. Its diverse and accomplished faculty promote scholarly, creative, and service activities consistent with the College's academic and professional strengths.