True wellness starts with education, whether it's helping someone gain an understanding of proper exercise habits or retraining someone's muscles after a tragic injury. We believe the health of the mind and the body are intrinsically linked together. The key to building a healthier future starts with building strong, healthy minds and bodies today. In JSU's Department of Kinesiology, we promote wellness and professional growth through dynamic student programs that embrace leadership opportunities, active learning, innovative technology, and research. If you are passionate about living a healthy, active lifestyle and helping others achieve the same in all its forms, a degree in the field of kinesiology can move your career forward!

The Department of Kinesiology in the College of Health Professions and Wellness offers an Education Specialist degree in Physical Education P-12, a Master's in Athletic Training, a Master of Science in Education degree in Physical Education - Human Performance concentration (non-professional educator certification), a Master of Science in Education degree in Physical Education - Nutrition concentration (non-professional educator certification), a Master of Science in Education degree in Physical Education P-12 (professional educator certification), and a Master of Science degree in Sport Management (professional educator certification and non-professional certification).
